Email to Export Accounts

May 5, 2006

We have the memo Dan Lyons has just released announcing that Greenwich Trade has been awarded the 2006, U.S. Export Achievement Award. This is a significant recognition and we at Lectrotab extend our congratulations; we are certainly proud to be a Greenwich Trade associate.

Some history; the Lectrotab product line was conceived, designed and patented during 1997, with first production beginning on January 2, 1998. Our first customer was Greenwich Trade Company, founded By Dan Lyons in 1987 to market U.S. made products to the world market. Along with Lectrotab, Greenwich Trade represents 27 other U.S. made marine products, with Lectrotab being Greenwich Trades fastest growing product line, with volume ranking with the top 6, along with Faria, Perko and Hubble.

We take this opportunity to confirm that Lectrotab owes all of its initial success to Dan and all of you guys who accepted a new product, from a new company, and sold it on our word that it would work. We are confident that we have delivered, and will continue to be the best, with the most, in trim tabs.

Slight change: We practiced using a Lectrotab kit with the new bolts and the square holes in the tabs and found the "bolts in the bag" idea to be inconvenient. Based on this, we will be inserting the bolts in the holes in the tab with the nuts, finger tight, to hold them in place. This way, you just hold the bolts from the bottom, engaged with the square hole, and proceed just as before; remove the nuts, which are only finger tight, put the lower bracket over the bolt threads and secure it with the nuts. This goes well, places the bolts where you need them, and eliminates the possibility of losing them in transit from the box to the tab.
