It's Christmas time, which, while not celebrated in every corner of the world, is a significant time here in the USA. As we listen to Christmas music, and visit and talk to family and friends, we feel the spirit and the power of the season which asks us to look at ourselves as others might see us, and to renew and strengthen our dedication to character through kindness and consideration for all. As we move into 2005, and look back at 2004, we at Lectrotab are very proud of our accomplishments and trust we have met your expectations. Thanks to you and to our other distributors around the world, we are prosperous and strong, and from that position, will continue to serve you as long as we may.

More next year when we will be looking forward to your continued input, assistance and support.

Best Regards,

L. Jeremy Crews
President
